

The gender gap in Math is not universal, BUT there is a universal gender gap in Reading, in favor of girls.

Boys score significantly higher than girls on average in most countries in the world (blue). Five countries have a gender gap in favor of girls (pink). For girls it is better to be in Jordan, Qatar, Thailand, Malaysia or UAE. There is no gap in many countries (green), including Sweden, Russia, Latvia, Finland, Bulgaria, Indonesia and China.

Girls score significantly higher than boys on reading on average, in every country.

Lowest and highest male and female math scores, a girl has highest USA score.

